

EMEA International Tax Manager - Google, EU Headquarters, Dublin

Google's in-house tax team knows all things corporate tax. Made up of smart, perceptive Googlers with a flair for domestic, international and sales & use tax, the knowledge and expertise of this team runs deep. You have years of experience in this field and an extensive knowledge of the related tax issues. While we don't give our Googlers individual tax advice, you make it easy for Googlers to get what they need to make good tax decisions. You find ways to work smarter by streamlining and automating our tax processes and systems, and find ways to be both innovative and compliant.

Responsibilities:

- Work with external advisors in monitoring and analyzing proposed and newly enacted EMEA tax legislation.
- Support the team on advising on acquisitions and corporate structure matters.
- Work with external advisors and other finance teams in structuring new product launches.
- Work with US GAAP team providing advice on FIN 48 issues.
- Work collaboratively with transfer pricing and tax compliance teams.

Minimum qualifications:

- BA/BS degree in Business, Finance, Law or Accounting or equivalent practical experience.
- Be ITI qualified with a Big 4 or legal practice or equivalent and have experience of working with large cross border transactions in industry, practice or both.

Preferred qualifications:

- Have strong technical skills and extensive experience of advising on international tax matters.
- Ability to influence at all levels.
- Ability to explain technical concepts in a simple and comprehensive way to colleagues without a tax technical background.
- Effective technical and interpersonal skills.

If you have relevant experience and are interested in applying for this opportunity at Google, Please send your updated CV to annakelly@google.com to apply.
